Tracy's Travels

"If you have your health, you have everything." I used to think that was such a cliché. But I realized this past January how true those words are. Those of you who have followed our Facebook page are aware that your driver, our team leader, and my dad, John Jeske, was diagnosed with cancer that was not caught and had spread throughout his body. We were devastated and deflated...not only is he the first man I ever loved, but my biggest cheerleader and business partner.

How would we manage without the man that gives 110% to everything he does, especially his love of driving. We knew he'd retire someday but we weren't prepared for this to happen immediately. We have caught our breath, our work family has rallied around him, and we are operating with a few little bumps in the road.

Thank you to our office team for handling things in my constant absence, our team of drivers and detailers who keep the buses rolling, and especially to Todd, our mechanic who gives dad such peace of mind that the shop is under control.

I can't explain how grateful I am for all the calls, texts, and over 100 cards that cheered dad on. Emotionally that helped him get through radiation and now chemo. For someone who has never been in a hospital or had any health issues, you give him the strength to fight this.

I'm happy to say he drove his bus this week for the first time in months. He was thrilled!!
